Correlation

Start Quiz

A Visual Guide to Correlation

Correlation Coefficient

Intro to Inferential Statistics- Correlation

Correlation coefficients are often denoted with the greek letter ρ (rho), in addition to the letter r.

The default method for computing the correlation coefficient is Pearson, and this is true for most statistical software. You do not need to pass the method parameter when calculating the Pearson Product Moment Correlation.

Have questions? Head to the forums for discussion with the Udacity Community.